She is primarily an adventure photographer focusing on travel, people and photojournalism. She especially gets excited about street photography. She has won National, and local recognition for her photographs. She does some teaching, especially the use of ProShow Producer for slideshows. She is currently designing a training program called "Back To Basics, Part 2". She has shown her prints in various venues and currently is part of a show "36 Views of the Golden Gate Bridge" hanging at the Crocker Museum in Sacramento along with the Normal Rockwell show. Tomorrow she heads to Yosemite for 4 days of shooting in the snow and then is off to Cripple Creek, CO to shoot at almost 10,000' at the Winter Ice Carving Festival. Brrrrrrr.
