01 - Alice.jpg

This is a well done camera obscure image. It has nice detail and exposure.

02 - Alice 2.jpg

see above

03 - Alice 3.jpg

This image seems a bit more focused and the bird in the "sky" takes it a bit farther. Also the tidier room features add to the overall balance and proportion. A nice image

04 - Asilomar Long Exposure.jpg

This is a nice image, perhaps in another contest it would be relevant. Nice composition and the "slow" water is a nice feature, but not necessarily super creative in itself. ("Slow" water movement is pretty standard fair for this genre of landscape.)

05 - Asilomar Wave.jpg

This is a nice image, but more suited to nature, or landscape. The technique is more expected for this type of image. It is a nice image.

06 - Boo!.jpg

The fact that the author was able to capture a witch on broom is rather remarkable! As all aspects of the “creative” have to be the author’s own captures. The green pumpkin is so antitype that it is distracting.

07 - Cocktail Hour.jpg

Odd image, well executed. I guess it is a variation of: “waiter there is a fly in my soup!”

08 - Hail, Prunedale, CA_.jpg

Interesting abstract.

09 - Ribera Abstract.jpg

Interesting abstract, or mood image.

10 - Sand and light patterns at Pajaro Dunes.jpg

This might be a good image for patterns, light and shadow?

11 - Wave at Pebble Beach.jpg

A photo of a wave. Not sure how it is creative as the wave is not really defined except the white water which is not white either.

12 - You're Not Gonna Believe This.jpg

This is a fun image, and has a certain charm. However it needs a bit of refinement in technique, (the scuba hose should be visible over the shadow.) The size of the ancient diver is not quite in proper proportion. Going in the right direction.
